

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

(By Wilfrid Eggleston)

Ottawa, March 24.—Coming events in the parliamentary world make a more sensational story than the accomplishments of the past week, which were fairly limited. The House of Commons spent the best part of four days passing the schedules of the United States trade agreement. Practically every item of the several hundred provided some discussion. Protection versus Free Trade was the text of a good many speeches. The farm implement industry and its relationship with the prosperity of the farmer were threshed out several times; in spite of the fact that the agricultural committee of the House is engaged in a study of farm implement prices, and that therefore many further opportunities will present themselves for a debate on this subject.

The House had a very hectic hour on Oscar Boulanger's bill to bring part of the civil service again within the patronage system; the temporary suspension of the bill was suggested by the Secretary of State as given second reading so that it could be studied by a committee. It is a rather unfortunate proposal, because the approval of the second reading of a bill means the approval of its principle, and there are many in the House in all parties who would not at all such a measure to become law over their dead bodies. The result was a heated debate on the merits and the "patronage" systems of appointing civil servants; and for the second time in a few days the Boulanger bill was "talked out." But it will come up again, and it is pretty safe to predict more fireworks.

Not Much in The Hopper

The legislative mill has been grinding along without much stuff in the hopper; but that defect will soon be rectified. Notices of resolutions, bills, committees of inquiry and so forth are beginning to pile up. A hasty glance over the bill of fare for the immediate future as it stacked up last week-end immediately brings to light the following:

Committee to study the radio commission and its work.

Committee to study the wheat board and its work.

Legislation to bring the Bank of Canada under the control and ownership of the government.

A study of electoral and franchise machinery in Canada.

Legislation to set up a national river board.

An amendment of the B. N. A. Act to provide federal guarantees of provincial loans.

Another amendment to authorize provinces to levy indirect taxes on retail sales, places of amusement, hotels and so forth.

Legislation to create a National Employment Commission.

Legislation to create a Veterans Assistance Commission.

Legislation to provide for agricultural settlement, rehabilitation, development of natural and other resources and relief for unemployment.

Legislation to merge the Pension Appeal Court and the Pension Commission.

I have probably missed two or three items at that; but it is obvious that a great deal of important work is now before the House. Add to these and any other such new legislation as may be prepared, a budget which will not be empty or insignificant; a discussion of the Japanese trade agreement; discussion of the Ottawa agreement and new revenue duties; and it is easily seen we shall be plugging away here for some time. Talk of a short light session is obviously idle.

Payments To Pool Farmers

Legislation to provide for payment about $6,000,000 to farmers who delivered wheat, flax and so on to the pool in 1935 was also heard during the week by the passing of the necessary notice on the order paper. The government has released a little from its cash position. The order is coming of October last contemplated a total payment of over $200,000,000; the original proposal of this government was a payment of $100,000,000. The present plan is about half way between these two and provides for some payment to producers of coarse grains, flax and flax only and durum wheat producers of Manitoba. The government finds it impossible to suit everyone in regards to these 1935 payments.

In the East there is a good deal of opposition to paying anything; in the west the pool farmers feel they are not getting enough, while the non-pool farmers are pleased because they are getting nothing.

REV. DOUGLAS TELFER

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Telfer entertained a three tabled bridge Friday evening last at their home. Fortunate winners of high scores were Mrs. White and Mr. Pierson with Mrs. Chomberlain and Mr. Whitehead receiving the consolation. Choice refreshments were served from a table where Mr. Patrick's favors left a pretty touch of color. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

Keep April 1st clear to attend the Social Evening being held in the Dining room of the Memorial Hall under the auspices of local Social Credit Group. Everyone welcome.

Young Hirtle entertained the Y.W.S. at their last meeting with an interest and cleverly executed Punch and Judy show.

Calgary offered two outstanding musical attractions last week in the Concerts given by Percy Grainger, Maestro of the Piano and Jan Kubiak with his intimate violin playing in which his son as piano accompanist and daughter on the 2nd violin gave excellent support. Those attending the Grainger concert from Strathmore were Mrs. Van Tighem, Mrs. Schulte and the Misses F. Garrett, Jean K. Grogan, Alice May, Gerry Van Tighem, Lois Schulte, Joan Garrett, Betty Mc Murray and Mr. Bruce Gilbert. Edith Hirtle and Andrew Garrett held the Kubiak recital and were enthusiastically by their playing.

Despite the inclemency of the elements Sunday last a goodly number braved the storm and enjoyed the religious refreshments served by the young men of the Y.W.S. Mrs. Whitehead presided by her daughter and Phyllis Dover conveyed the tea. Serving the guests and generally assisting were Mrs. and Edith Gilbert, Fred Hirtle, George Hirtle, Archie Schuler, Douglas Shillington, Don Nichol, Wilfrid Archibald, Fred Teare and Carl Sonnessen. The boys ended at 2:30 by their coffee.

Joe and Helen French are suffering from the prevailing flu.

Coming to Strathmore from Hanna about 13 years ago, to fill the position of Secretary-Treasurer of Bow Valley Mr. Gardiner has by his keenly efficient and painstaking application to his office proven himself an official of exceptional worth, strengthening the position of the Bow Valley Council and meriting the utmost confidence of the towns and Councilors at all times in all their dealings.

His complete knowledge of the affairs under his hand was phenomenal, and any information the Councilors at any time required was forthcoming immediately.

The Strathmore townfolk gave evidence to their confidence in him when on the resignation of A. D. Shrimpton from the Mayor's chair, 19 months ago, Mr. Gardiner was elected by acclamation as Mayor of Strathmore.

In private matters his advice and opinion have been eagerly sought by many persons and invariably a feeling of utter confidence in his judgment and sincerity was instilled.

That his promotion has come to Mr. Gardiner is only fitting tribute to a worthy official and in this we rejoice.

Beth Mc and Mrs. Gardiner have been citizens of the best type and their loss to Strathmore will be real. Mrs. Gardiner has been an active member of the Strathmore Society and helped largely in the Welfare work of this group.

They will be missed from the Parish of Sacred Heart, where church they were faithful members.

They will reside in Calgary, leaving for the city early in April.

"George in a Jam", a play by the London actors and actresses was put on in the Cheadle Hall, Friday last.

NEWSPAPER DEVELOPMENT

The development of our modern, up-to-date newspaper, from the primitive smoke signals of the aborigines to the organ of great national importance of the present time has been very gradual. News was first spread by word of mouth as gossip to this day. The town crier was perhaps the first distributor of news. With the invention of printing, the progress made was comparatively rapid.

With the beginning of Reuter's News Agency in 1847, the press association came into being and modern journalism began. Today the people of all countries are in close touch with one another. What happens in Canada today is known on the other side of the world tomorrow.

Canada's first newspaper came into being in the year 1752, John Bushell establishing the Halifax Gazette. In that year, among the United Empire Loyalists were many who had a knowledge of the printing trade. With their coming the printing business was speeded up, and from then on, with the steady growth of our population the number of newspapers has had a steady climb.

There are, according to recognized authorities, about 1,100 newspapers printed in Canada at the present time. Either daily, semi-weekly or bi-weekly. Therefore it would be safe to assume that most of Canada's newspaper consumption of over 200,000 tons of news print is utilized by her existing newspaper presses.

This information is taken from reports issued by the Forest Products Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. —Vulcan Advocate.

Weekly Edmonton Letter

::O::

Edmonton, Alta.—The Social Credit bill came up for consideration in committee of the House Friday. It was reported for the third reading after an important amendment was added to it in motion by Premier Aberhart.

This amendment alters the scope of the bill, or widens its scope so that the bill as it now stands makes it not possible for the government to introduce and enact Social Credit without recourse to the legislature or approval.

It is the first time in the history of the province that a bill of this kind has been introduced and passed by the legislature without referring its decisions or actions to the legislative body. In other words, it takes the legislative power out of the hands of the legislative body.

It would appear to be the next thing to dictatorship if it doesn't actually give the executive council the powers of a dictator. Opposition speakers pointed out that it was "government by executive council".

In the other hand it is argued by government supporters that the system to be taken by the executive following a study of the whole Social Credit proposals will be what would be supported by the majority in the house in any case, and besides that this government was elected in Alberta and is therefore justified in taking the shortest cut to its objective on the mandate of the people.

The government ignored warnings of the opposition that the procedure might result in the act being declared ultra vires of the province and adopted to the Alberta constitution.

This amendment gives the cabinet the power to "adopt and put into effect" the exchange of goods and services, on a Social Credit basis.

The amendment was introduced at a point of order by L. A. Gurney, leader from the opposition, who argued it was bad legislation on two counts, namely, it involved the expenditure of money, which was a privilege of the legislature, and that the house had no right to delegate its powers to the executive council.

On the government side it was argued that the opposition had claimed the original bill was not legislation because it made no enactment and the amendment would fulfill the weakness or lack. Premier Aberhart assured the members that the implementation of Social Credit involved no expenditure of public monies whatever. The plan was based on credit and money.

The government's recall measure also went through committee during the week and despite strong opposition from Mr. Speaker's list and attempts to make it more drastic in its operation, the bill was left unchanged in all practical purposes. It was described by the opposition speakers as "rotten" and "a farce".

R. M. Duggan, G. H. Van Allen, L. A. Gurney and J. J. Bowlen with a G. O.'Connor all dubbing it as a measure designed to prevent members of the legislature being recalled rather than on a noble constituency that are identified with their member having him recalled. The bill now only requires third reading to become law.

A highlight in the discussion of this bill was afforded by H. Taggart, Social Credit member from Drumheller, who declared he was sure that every Credit member of the house will resign if the Social Credit promises remain unfulfilled.

Mr. McInnes said, "That's exactly what I want to know, but I want the premier to say it." Mr. Aberhart ignored the remark.

A decreasing time was spent in the public accounts committee when H. J. Magor and J. C. Thompson, retiring provincial auditors, gave evidence. Both these men stated that anything like repudiation of debts by the province would damage the province's credit very seriously. Thompson would practically close the money markets of the world to Alberta they both agreed.

During Mr. Thompson's examination by members of the committee he was asked if in all his 12 years experience as auditor he had found any dishonesty in any cabinet minister or deputy minister. D. M. Duggan asked the question and Mr. Thompson's answer was an emphatic no. He said further that Alberta had every reason to be proud of the honesty of its civil service. He told the committee the Alberta civil service compared favorably with any other body of its kind in the Dominion.

Two important bills are still to come before the house before the session ends, namely, the education bill of the premier, and a new act amend-ced as coming up this week, a bill to provide for compulsory refunding of the province's debt of more than $100,000,000.

Giving evidence on this before the public accounts committee, J. C. Thompson, said it was his opinion that such a measure would "wreck the credit of the province." He also supported H. J. Magor, special financial adviser, in the opinion that participation in the Ottawa proposed loan council would be the best way of refunding the province's debt.

A bill to provide a minimum wage for men was also promoted by Hon. E. C. Manning and has received first reading. On Tuesday 15 bills were approved and advanced to third reading by the house. Among these bills ready for enactment is Mr. Manning's bill requiring certificates of proficiency for certain tradesmen, which Mr. Van Allen said was "pure facsimile".
